Don't Miss East Bay SPCA's Annual Adopt-a-thon

More than 300 animals from 30 Bay Area rescue groups and shelters will be at Jack London Square in Oakland on Saturday, July 21, 2018

OAKLAND, Calif., July 21, 2018 – From pigeons to pugs... there will be cats, dogs, rabbits, birds, rats and more on site and available for adoption on the Oakland waterfront Saturday, July 21, from 10 am to 2 pm, when the East Bay SPCA hosts its annual Adopt-a-thon at Jack London Square. Presented by sponsor Pet Food Express, the East Bay SPCA Adopt-a-thon features more than 300 adoptable animals from 30 Bay Area rescue groups and shelters, in addition to pet supply vendors and service providers.

Whether you are looking for a new best friend or searching for a new dog sitter, the event has something for the whole family, including a fun photo booth and vouchers for $10 microchips to help reunite pets and their owners should their pet ever go missing.

“We’re excited to partner with other East Bay shelters and rescues once again for the biggest animal adoption event in the region,” said Allison Lindquist, East Bay SPCA President and CEO. “Adopting helps save the life of a pet and also creates new space in a shelter or rescue to house and save more lives.”

The East Bay SPCA Adopt-a-thon is widely anticipated, bringing together more than 30 amazing rescue groups and shelters across the Bay Area who work tirelessly to find wonderful companion animals a forever home. The East Bay SPCA first established Adopt-a-thon as a 24-hour event held at the shelter but attendance and partners’ presence was so large that it was moved to Jack London Square.
